What is a referral discount?

Answer: A referral discount rewards customers or their referrals when qualifying purchases are made.

What is free shipping promotion?

Answer: It is an offer that removes eligible shipping charges when specified conditions are met.

Why did my discount disappear at checkout?

Answer: The promotion may not apply to selected items, may have expired, or may require a minimum purchase.

Are taxes calculated before or after discounts?

Answer: Tax calculation depends on local rules and the store's checkout configuration.

Can I receive a discount for my first order?

Answer: Some stores offer first-order promotions, subject to their eligibility requirements.

Orders and Checkout

How do I place an order?

Answer: Select products, add them to the cart, review the order, provide required information, and confirm payment.

Can I change an order after placing it?

Answer: Changes may be possible before processing or shipment, depending on the store.

Can I cancel an order?

Answer: Cancellation may be possible before fulfillment reaches a certain stage.

How do I know my order was successfully placed?

Answer: A confirmation page or email normally provides an order number and purchase details.

Where can I find my order number?

Answer: It is usually shown in the confirmation email and order history.

I did not receive an order confirmation. What should I do?

Answer: Check your spam folder and verify the email address before contacting support.

Can I order without creating an account?

Answer: Guest checkout may be available depending on the store.

Can I change the quantity in my cart?

Answer: Yes, normally you can adjust quantities before submitting the order.

Can I remove an item from my cart?

Answer: Yes, items can usually be removed before checkout.

Why did checkout fail?

Answer: Payment issues, unavailable inventory, invalid information, technical errors, or expired sessions can cause checkout failure.

Why can I not add a product to my cart?

Answer: The product may be unavailable, a required option may be missing, or the site may have a temporary issue.

Why did my cart become empty?

Answer: Your session may have expired, cart persistence may be limited, or the store may have changed availability.

Can I place multiple orders?

Answer: Yes, customers can normally place separate orders whenever needed.

Can I reorder a previous purchase?

Answer: Some stores provide a reorder feature through order history.

Can I add a gift message to an order?

Answer: If supported, a gift-message option is normally available during checkout.

Can I purchase a gift card online?

Answer: Many stores offer physical or digital gift cards.

Can I schedule an order?

Answer: Some stores support scheduled delivery or recurring orders, depending on the product.

Can I split an order into multiple deliveries?

Answer: A store may split shipments when products come from different warehouses or have different availability.

Can I combine two orders?

Answer: Orders generally cannot be combined after submission, but support may advise on available options.

Why was my order automatically canceled?

Answer: Common reasons include payment problems, inventory issues, suspected fraud, or failure to complete required verification.

Payments and Billing

What payment methods are accepted?

Answer: Common methods include credit cards, debit cards, bank transfers, digital wallets, and cash on delivery where supported.

Is online payment secure?

Answer: Reputable stores use encrypted connections and established payment processors to protect transactions.

Why was my card declined?

Answer: Possible causes include insufficient funds, incorrect details, bank restrictions, expired cards, or security checks.

What should I do after a declined payment?

Answer: Verify the payment information and contact your bank or payment provider if necessary.

Was I charged if my payment failed?

Answer: A temporary authorization may appear even when a payment does not complete; it is generally released by the provider.

Can I pay cash on delivery?

Answer: Cash on delivery is available only when the store and delivery service support it.

Can I pay with a digital wallet?

Answer: Many stores support digital wallets such as those offered by major payment providers.

What is a payment authorization?

Answer: Authorization is a payment-provider approval or hold indicating that funds may be available for a transaction.

Why does my statement show a pending charge?

Answer: The payment provider may still be processing or confirming the transaction.

Why is the charged amount different from the product price?

Answer: Taxes, shipping, currency conversion, fees, or selected options can change the final amount.

Will I receive a receipt?

Answer: Most stores provide an electronic receipt or order confirmation after payment.

Can I request an invoice?

Answer: If supported, customers can request or download an invoice from their order details.

Can I get a tax invoice?

Answer: Some stores issue tax invoices according to applicable tax rules.

Can I use a gift card for payment?

Answer: If supported, a gift-card code can normally be entered during checkout.

Can I use store credit?

Answer: If available, store credit can usually be applied to eligible purchases during checkout.

Can I pay in installments?

Answer: Some stores offer installment or buy-now-pay-later services subject to eligibility.

Can I pay with a bank transfer?

Answer: Some stores support bank transfer payments and provide instructions after checkout.

Why was I charged twice?

Answer: Duplicate-looking charges may include a completed payment and a temporary authorization; contact support if both remain posted.

How do I update my billing information?

Answer: Update billing details in your account or during checkout when the store permits it.

Can I change the payment method after ordering?

Answer: Some stores allow payment-method changes before processing, but this is not always available.

Shipping and Delivery

What shipping methods are available?

Answer: Options may include standard, express, same-day, pickup, or international shipping.

How much does shipping cost?

Answer: Shipping charges depend on destination, package size, weight, service level, and promotions.

How long does delivery take?

Answer: Delivery time depends on processing, shipping method, destination, carrier performance, and holidays.

How can I track my order?

Answer: Use the tracking number or tracking link provided by the store or carrier.

When will tracking become available?

Answer: Tracking usually becomes available after the carrier receives and scans the shipment.

Why has my tracking not updated?

Answer: Carrier scans can be delayed, especially between transit locations.

What should I do if my order is late?

Answer: Review the latest tracking information and contact support if the delay exceeds the expected delivery period.

What if my package says delivered but I did not receive it?

Answer: Check the delivery area and ask household members or building staff, then contact the carrier and store if needed.

Can I change my shipping address?

Answer: Address changes may be possible before shipment but are often unavailable after dispatch.

Can I select a delivery date?

Answer: Scheduled delivery may be available for certain locations and shipping services.

Can I choose a delivery time?

Answer: Some carriers offer time windows, but availability varies by location and service.

What happens if nobody is home?

Answer: The carrier may leave the package, attempt redelivery, or take it to a pickup location according to its procedures.

Can I collect my order from a store?

Answer: Some retailers provide store pickup or click-and-collect services.

What is same-day delivery?

Answer: Same-day delivery means an eligible order is delivered on the same day when placed within the required cutoff.

What is express delivery?

Answer: Express delivery is a faster shipping service than the standard option.

What is standard delivery?

Answer: Standard delivery is the regular shipping service offered by a store or carrier.

Do weekends count as delivery days?

Answer: This depends on the carrier, destination, and shipping service.

Do holidays affect delivery?

Answer: Yes, public holidays can affect processing and carrier schedules.

What happens if a package is returned to the sender?

Answer: The store may contact you to arrange reshipping, refund, or another resolution.

Can I track an international shipment?

Answer: Yes, international shipments generally have tracking, although updates may vary between carriers and customs stages.

International Shipping and Customs

Does the store ship internationally?

Answer: International shipping depends on supported destinations, products, carriers, and local restrictions.

What are customs duties?

Answer: Customs duties are charges imposed by a destination country on certain imported goods.

What are import taxes?

Answer: Import taxes are taxes that may apply when goods enter a country.

Who pays customs charges?

Answer: Responsibility depends on the store's shipping terms and the destination country's requirements.

Why is my international package held by customs?

Answer: Customs may hold shipments for inspection, documentation, payment, or regulatory checks.

How long can customs clearance take?

Answer: Clearance times vary based on the country, shipment type, documentation, inspections, and workload.

Can every product be shipped internationally?

Answer: No. Some products are restricted by law, carrier rules, seller policies, or destination requirements.

Why was my international order canceled?

Answer: It may be canceled because the destination is unsupported, the product is restricted, or shipping cannot be completed.

Can international orders be returned?

Answer: Returns may be available, but international return shipping and customs responsibilities vary by policy.

Who handles international delivery?

Answer: The store may use one or more logistics providers, postal services, or international carriers.

Why is international shipping expensive?

Answer: International shipping can involve longer distances, customs processing, handling, insurance, and additional logistics costs.

Can I change the destination country after ordering?

Answer: Usually the destination cannot be changed after an order is submitted, especially after shipment.

What documents may customs require?

Answer: Customs may require invoices, identification, declarations, permits, or other documentation depending on the shipment.

What is a customs declaration?

Answer: It is information submitted about the contents and value of an international shipment.

Can customs open my package?

Answer: Customs authorities may inspect shipments according to applicable laws and procedures.

What happens if customs rejects a shipment?

Answer: The shipment may be returned, held, destroyed, or otherwise handled according to local regulations.

Can I estimate international delivery time?

Answer: The store or carrier may provide an estimated range, but customs and transit delays can affect it.

Can I get a refund for customs charges?

Answer: This depends on the store's policy, customs rules, and the reason for the charge.

Are international returns free?

Answer: Not necessarily; international return shipping may be subject to the store's policy.

How do I track customs status?

Answer: Use the carrier's tracking service and review any customs notifications provided.

Returns and Exchanges

What is a return policy?

Answer: A return policy explains eligibility, deadlines, product conditions, exclusions, and return procedures.

How do I return an item?

Answer: Start the return through the store's return portal or support team and follow the provided instructions.

How long do I have to return a product?

Answer: The return period varies by store, product, and applicable law.

Does a returned product need to be unused?

Answer: Many stores require products to be unused and in their original condition.

Do I need the original packaging?

Answer: Some stores require original packaging, while others have more flexible requirements.

Can I exchange an item?

Answer: If exchanges are supported, you can request an eligible replacement according to the exchange policy.

Can I exchange for a different size?

Answer: Many stores allow size exchanges when the desired size is available.

Can I exchange for a different color?

Answer: Some stores allow color exchanges if the requested variant is available.

Who pays return shipping?

Answer: Return shipping responsibility depends on the store's policy and the reason for return.

Are return labels provided?

Answer: Some stores provide prepaid return labels for eligible returns.

Can I return a sale item?

Answer: Sale items may be returnable or may be final sale depending on the store's policy.

Can I return a personalized product?

Answer: Personalized products are often excluded from returns unless they are defective or the law provides otherwise.

Can I return a digital product?

Answer: Digital-product return rights depend on the product, store policy, and applicable law.

Can I return a perishable product?

Answer: Perishable products are often excluded because of their nature, subject to applicable consumer protections.

What if the product is defective?

Answer: Contact support promptly and provide order details and evidence of the defect if requested.

What if I received the wrong item?

Answer: Contact support with the order number and details so the store can arrange the appropriate resolution.

What if an item is missing from my package?

Answer: Check the packing information and contact support if the item was not included.

Can I return part of an order?

Answer: Most stores allow partial returns for eligible items.

Can I return an item bought with a discount?

Answer: Discounted purchases can generally be returned according to the applicable return policy.

What happens after I submit a return request?

Answer: The store reviews the request and provides return instructions or a decision based on its policy.

Refunds

When will I receive my refund?

Answer: Refund timing depends on the store's processing time and the payment provider.

How will my refund be issued?

Answer: Refunds are commonly returned to the original payment method.

Can I receive a cash refund?

Answer: Refund methods depend on the original payment method and store policy.

Why has my refund not arrived?

Answer: The store may still be processing it, or the payment provider may need additional time to post it.

Can a refund take several business days?

Answer: Yes, payment providers and banks can require additional processing time.

Will shipping charges be refunded?

Answer: This depends on the store's refund policy and the reason for the return.

Will return shipping be deducted from my refund?

Answer: Some stores deduct return shipping unless the return qualifies for free return shipping.

Will taxes be refunded?

Answer: Tax refunds depend on the original transaction, return policy, and applicable tax rules.

What if I paid with a gift card?

Answer: A refund may be returned as store credit or to the gift card according to the store's policy.

What if my payment card has expired?

Answer: The payment provider may still process the refund to the original account, but contact the provider if there is a problem.

Can I get a partial refund?

Answer: A partial refund may be issued for partial cancellations, price adjustments, or approved resolutions.

Can I receive a refund without returning an item?

Answer: In some cases, a store may issue a refund without requiring a return, but this is policy-dependent.

What is a refund pending status?

Answer: It means the refund has been initiated or requested but has not yet completed.

Can a refund be canceled?

Answer: Once processed, a refund generally cannot simply be canceled; contact support immediately if an error occurred.

What should I do if I received the wrong refund amount?

Answer: Compare the refund with the order details and contact support with the relevant information.

How do I check refund status?

Answer: Check your order account or contact customer support for the current status.

Can shipping insurance affect my refund?

Answer: Insurance claims may involve separate procedures and can affect how loss or damage is resolved.

Can a canceled order be refunded automatically?

Answer: Depending on the payment status, eligible canceled orders may be automatically refunded.

What if my order was canceled after payment?

Answer: The store should normally initiate a refund for any completed payment associated with the canceled order.

Does a refund include promotional discounts?

Answer: The refund is normally calculated according to the original order and applicable promotion rules.

Account and Security
